The Journey is a two-person comedy in which Kamau and Imani meet in a mall in Washington, DC. Imani is a paralegal who just passed the bar, is visiting from Idaho and it is her last day in town. She meets Kamau who is a different type of professional clown, but they hit it off right away, so they decide to spend the rest of the day together. She gives him her number but he loses it, which launched into a journey across the country to try and find her.
